It was as clear when you said "documents" today as it was when you said "pages" on Friday. All that was not clear was which one you meant. But now that "documents" is ahead of "pages" by two to one, "documents" is starting to seem more clear.

I'm also curious, and I believe that this is part of the required determination response, what kinds of exemptions might possibly, conceivably, apply to communications between City staff and a private corporation such at the Hollywood Property Owners' Alliance?

thanks again!
